

Honey

We have an extensive honey database with samples from throughout the world. New Zealand has an enviable reputation for quality honey which makes the product a target for fraud.

Example of Honey origin fingerprints

Each cluster represents an origin fingerprint for producers of Manuka honey products, and each point within the cluster represents a sample of the product. If a sample falls inside of a cloud, it is deemed to be consistent with product from that producer.

Oritain can answer the following questions:

- Is this honey a true product of New Zealand?
- What factory did this product come from?
- What batch did this product come from?
- Was this product diluted?
- What was the level of dilution for this product?
